

Downtown Revitalization

Durham, New Hampshire

Woodburn & Company provided landscape and architectural design and construction documentation for the revitalization of Durham's Main Street. The project was a pro-bono effort in partnership with two other local designers undertaken as "The Midnight Oil Design Group." Home of the University of New Hampshire, Durham required a facelift, traffic calming, and an improved sense of community. This street improvement project was the first of many steps that enhanced Durham's image to prospective students, new businesses, and future residents.
